PROLOGUE

The Kingdom of Duhan has been known as a sacred town since ancient times. However, all was left in ruins after a sudden flash struck from the heavens. "The Flash", as it became known, directly hit the castle of Duhan, known as "The Gem of Benoir", and took thousands of people's lives. The tragedy did not stop there.

When the Flash crashed into the earth, the impact distorted space. Consequently, the castle's underground became an entrance to the Labyrinth. Duhan, covered by another connected world, became an island on land, isolated from its surroundings. The whole town was filled with despair. Queen Otelier barely survived the attack and ordered the sorcerer LeDua, the chief of the Queen's Guard, to explore the Labyrinth. When the soldiers of the castle started to explore the Labyrinth, strange rumors began surfacing among the people.

"Buried in the darkness of the Labyrinth is a hidden treasure, an item that will make any wish come true."

Many survivors of the Flash, forced to live in hardship, have disappeared into the Labyrinth with hopes of finding that treasure.

...Some to become a hero.
...Some to fulfill their greed.
...And some just to survive.

Please refer to page 30 for information about race and class. Read the table below for information about attributes.

"Attribute" is the tendency of a creature or character to act a certain way. Those who have opposite attributes may not get along well, and this can affect an entire party. However, there are no restrictions on the attributes of characters when forming a party.

Good

A good character generally puts the well-being of others before him/herself. If creatures or characters encountered are friendly, a good character will act sympathetically. If you play a good character contrary to the behavioral patterns of the good attribute, this may cause the character's attribute to change.

Neutral

A neutral character generally determines his/her actions based on the situation. If creatures or characters encountered are friendly, he/she may choose to fight or leave. His/her attribute will not change under any circumstances.

Evil

An evil character will generally act in his/her personal best interest. Even if creatures or characters encountered are friendly, an evil character will not show any sympathy. If you play an evil character contrary to the behavioral patterns of the evil attribute, this may cause the character's attribute to change.

Playing the Game

When you first step into the town of Duhan, the main character is alone. Once you have learned the basics of the game, you will be able to adventure with other characters.

Basic Flow of the Game

- 1 Accept quests at the Tavern (p.10).
- 2 Recruit comrades at the Guild (p.10).
- 3 Make preparations at Vigger's Shop (p.10).
- 4 Complete your quest in the Labyrinth (p.11).
- 5 Receive your reward at the Tavern (p.16).

Strengthening Your Party and Solving the Mystery of the Labyrinth

The setting of "Wizardry" is a town called Duhan. The main character of this game will communicate with the people of the town, make friends, accept quests, and explore the underground labyrinth. He/she will encounter various monsters and mysteries in the Labyrinth. Strengthen your party little by little as you try to solve these mysteries. The further you go down in the Labyrinth, the more complicated the mysteries will become, and the stronger the monsters will be.

Playing the Game

1

Accept quests at the Tavern

The Tavern is where people gather to drown their sorrows

The Tavern, "Luna Light", stands silently along the river. It is crowded with villagers and those who have explored the Labyrinth. Posting on a bulletin board, they use the "Quest Form" to seek help with puzzles and difficulties which they cannot solve on their own. Everything on the Quest Form relates to the Labyrinth. Read carefully and decide whether or not you wish to accept a quest. You will need other characters in your party to help you explore the Labyrinth and undertake quests.

2

Recruit comrades at the Guild

The Guild is where you will maintain your party

You may register or delete adventurers and change their classes at the Guild. Use the Register there to make these changes so that you can add adventurers who are listed to your party at the Tavern. Besides maintaining your characters at the Guild, you may also master Allied Actions there (p.19). It's a good idea to stop by the Guild before entering the Labyrinth. You will make greater progress by first strengthening your party.

3

Make preparations at Vigger's Shop

It may be poorly supplied, but it's the only shop in Duhan

Ever since the Flash, this shop has been running short on supplies. You may buy and sell weapons and armor here, as well as have magic stones made. The shopkeeper will also appraise items that are acquired in the Labyrinth. You will not want to sell those items unless they have been appraised. Make sure to prepare your party well by buying and selling equipment and items at Vigger's Shop.

Complete your quest in the Labyrinth

Learn the basic actions that are used in the Labyrinth

Once you've made your preparations in Duhan, you can start exploring the Labyrinth. In the Labyrinth you will battle monsters, accomplish quests, and explore. Of course, you are free to pursue your own objectives, regardless of your task. For instance, you may decide to search for treasure while battling monsters.

Inside the Labyrinth

Battle Monsters

The symbols of enemies who wander around the Labyrinth

While exploring the Labyrinth, you will encounter roaming symbols. They represent a group of monsters. A battle begins when you make contact with these symbols. Be aware that although these symbols usually move slowly, when your party is recognized, their color turns red, and they start moving more rapidly. To gain an advantage over the monsters, make contact with them from behind.

Explore the Labyrinth

Investigate suspicious places

The Labyrinth is filled with mysteries. If you find something suspicious, press the X button to investigate. By doing so, you may be able to obtain tips that will allow you to proceed deeper into the Labyrinth, continue your adventures, or find unexpected items. Be aware of the traps that have been set on treasure chests and scattered throughout the Labyrinth. There are four types of treasure chests: normal, locked, trapped, and locked with traps. You can practice disarming traps at the Tavern in safety.

Accomplish Quests

Return to town for your reward

After you complete your quest, go to the Tavern. There, you will receive Exp points, items, etc. as your reward. Also, if you have a Transfer Potion, you will be able to return to town immediately. Therefore, it is a good idea to keep one handy at all times.

Abnormal States

A character can be afflicted with various abnormal states from fighting with monsters and from traps in the Labyrinth. There are 14 kinds of abnormal states that can affect party members. Learn the characteristics of each one so that you will be able to deal with it quickly.

Poison

When affected by poison, HP will decrease each turn.

Paralysis

When paralyzed, a character is immobile. You cannot enter any commands for that character, nor can he/she participate in Allied Actions. The damage that a paralyzed character receives is doubled.

Paralysis by Spell

A character can become paralyzed by an enemy's spell attack. The status is lifted once the battle has ended.

Web Paralysis

A character can become paralyzed by the special attack of a monster. The status is lifted once the battle has ended.

Glare Paralysis

A character can become paralyzed by the special attack of a monster. The status is lifted once the battle has ended.

Sleep

When subjected to this abnormal status, a character is forced to fall asleep. That character will be unable to move for several turns.

Seal

With this status, a character's spells are sealed and no spells can be cast.

Unconsciousness

When a character becomes unconscious, he/she is immobile for several turns, but will recover naturally.

Fear

When fear is planted in a character, he/she may flee a battle scene or cause an Allied Action to fail.

Petrification

A character becomes immobile when he/she has been petrified. Damage received will be greater when affected by this status and when the character dies, he/she will turn to ashes.

Death

With this status, a character's stamina has been lost, and he/she has died. That character may be recovered at the temple, but the game will be over if everyone in the party dies.

Ashes

This status is worse than death. When your character has been turned into ashes, he/she may be revived, but if the resurrection attempt fails, you won't be able to use the character again.

Lost

A character becomes "lost" forever when a resurrection attempt fails.

Reaper

If possessed by the Reaper at the time of death, a character will turn from "death" to "ashes". However, if a character dies from being possessed, he/she will be lost.

Battle System

This section is dedicated to learning how to fight enemies. Special techniques known as Allied Actions are group battles essential to mastering the battle system.

Unite Your Party and Destroy the Enemy

When you come into contact with an enemy "symbol" in the Labyrinth, a battle will begin. Both enemies and player-characters will be divided into front and back rows. Front row party members will come under attack more often. Use a combination of weapons, spells, and Allied Actions, the most effective technique in group battle, to slay the enemy.

Party Rank and the Allied System

During a battle, besides physical and spell attacks, you can also use the group battle technique, Allied Action, which was developed by the Queen's Guards. An Allied Action requires the synchronization of a group of characters in order to perform a powerful, complex technique. However, in order to use this technique, strong trust between comrades is necessary. Depending on the party leader's actions, trust can be built between party members, resulting in a higher Party Rank. As Party Rank increases, more powerful Allied Actions can be learned. To become a successful adventurer, devote yourself to becoming a master of Allied Actions.

Party Rank

The maximum number of members you may add to your party is five. A party will usually consist of members with various personalities. Party rank ties these members together as a group. Understanding each member's personality and taking appropriate actions are key elements in effectively using this system.

There are eight party ranks that change depending on the degree of party member trust.

Party rank is represented by the symbols below. If currently your party rank is Obligation, then as trust increases, it will become Friendship. On the other hand, if trust diminishes, party rank will regress to Alliance. The Allied Actions available to the party will vary depending on party rank. The illustration below shows the Party Rank symbols from the highest to lowest Party Rank.

Allied Actions

During the course of the game, enemies with special attacks will appear. These monsters are very strong and can eliminate your party quickly, even if you counterattack with weapons. In such cases, Allied Actions can be very helpful.

Depending on the situation, use different combinations of "Offensive AA", "Defensive AA", "Spell AA", and "Assisted AA" techniques to win battles.

Using the Four Types of Allied Actions

Each Allied Action has its own distinct advantage. Remembering the characteristics of each AA will be very useful in battle. Note that, as Party Rank increases, the same Allied Action will become more powerful.

Offensive AA

Double Slash-A very complex technique involving two front row members attacking the enemy from both sides at the same time.

Stun Attack-When a back row priest or sorcerer adds magic to a front row member's attack, the attack will inflict "Thunder" damage and stun the enemy.

Assisted AA

Restrict Shot-When the party is about to be attacked, some members will counterattack by throwing projectiles to interrupt the enemy's assault.

Spell Cancel-Just as Restrict Shot will counter an enemy's direct attack, this technique will stop an enemy's spell attack.

Defensive AA

Front Guard-Two or more front row members will form a defensive stance together. For the duration of this technique, allied members' ability to avoid, defend against, and block status abnormalities will increase. While front row members are immobile, members in the back row can still attack and defeat enemies.

Spell AA

Spell Sword-This Allied Action intensifies the attacks of front row members by adding a spell to them. Even if an enemy can resist an offensive spell, it might still suffer some damage from this Allied Action.

Battle Screen

- ① Enemy characters, divided into front and back rows.
- ② Party Rank (p.18).
- ③ Character's Name. If the party member is suffering from an abnormal status, an appropriate icon will be displayed.
- ④ On the left is the character's attribute, and on the right is the character's class.
- ⑤ Character's HP. When HP reaches zero, the member dies.
- ⑥ Battle Command. Early in the game, before mastering Allied Actions, this command will not be available. The "Individual Action" commands will appear instead.
- ⑦ By pressing the R1 button, you can view the enemy from a different angle.

Battle Commands

When a battle begins, the battle window will appear on the left side of the screen. During the prologue, while Allied Action has not yet been mastered, players can only use the 7 commands in "Individual Action". Once they have mastered Allied Actions, you will be able to use the following four commands: "Allied Actions", "Invert Rows", "Flee Together", and "Individual Action".

Allied Action

Once you have mastered Allied Actions from the Mysterious Swordsman, you will be able to use Offensive, Defensive, and Assisted Allied Actions. You can also master AA's at the Guild in town.

Invert Rows

Change the configuration of the party. When enemies attack your party from behind, weaker characters will be more vulnerable so it is a good idea to use this command to invert rows.

Flee Together

By issuing this command, every party member will retreat. Unlike the Individual Action "Flee" (p.21), which depends on each character's ability, this command has a higher rate of success.

Individual Action

Instead of taking action as a group like with Allied Actions, this command is used to direct each character individually. Depending on the character and the formation of the party, different commands will appear. At most, the following 7 commands are available for a character. While Allied Action can be powerful during battle, sometimes it is also important to take Individual Actions.

Attack

Instead of taking action as a group like with Allied Actions, this command is used to direct each character individually. Depending on the character and the formation of the party, different commands will appear. While Allied Action can be powerful during battle, sometimes it is also important to take Individual Actions.

Spell

Use this command to execute the spells you have mastered. There are two kinds of spells, "Sorcerer Spells", which are offensive, and "Priest Spells", which are healing.

Item

Select this command to use items that are in your inventory. Just like in the field, first choose the item that you would like to use and then select a target (enemy or comrade) at which the item's effect will be directed.

Defend

When this command has been selected, a character will assume a defensive posture which will allow him/her to reduce the amount of damage sustained from an enemy's direct or spell attack.

Swap

If you want to change the position of a party member, you can use this command. Select the member you want to swap using the directional buttons and confirm your choice using the X button.

Flee

Use this command to escape from enemies. Even though the success rate is lower than "Flee Together", if even one party member can manage to escape from battle, then the battle ends.

Dispel

Dispel is a divine chanting that only priests, bishops, and knights can use. It can be used to defeat or scare away Undead monsters. Executing this command does not require any MP.

☞ REMEMBER: FIGHTING AN UNDEAD MONSTER

As mentioned, Undead monsters cannot be defeated using regular attacks. Attacking them will cause damage, but it will not kill them. There are three ways to defeat an Undead monster:

1. Chanting "Dispel", 2. Casting offensive spells, and 3. Using weapons that are blessed with magical powers.

Ending a Battle

Once you've either killed the enemy or successfully retreated, then a battle ends. After a battle is over, a result screen will appear, indicating the experience points and money you've earned. When using the command "Flee", players will only receive experience points from enemies that were defeated. There are also times when enemies will leave treasure chests after being defeated. Be sure to claim the items inside.

When Characters Die and the Game is Over

If each character's HP reach zero and the whole party has died, then the game is over. You can revive dead party members by going to the Temple and paying the priests.

☞ REMEMBER: GAIN LEVELS BY EARNING EXPERIENCE POINTS

When a character has accumulated sufficient experience points, he/she will increase in level. However, the character must first visit and stay overnight at the Lodge before his/her ability points will increase. A level-up mark will appear on the status screen, and the character panel in the party window will glow, indicating that a character is ready to level up. So when you see these indications, be sure to stay at the Lodge.

The Reaper System & the Fear of Becoming "Lost"

As your characters venture through the Labyrinth, occasionally they will encounter something more menacing than ordinary monsters. A "Reaper" may appear and approach the adventurers. When possessed by a Reaper, party members will have abnormal status. If a party member dies while being possessed, he/she may become "Lost". During the duration of this abnormal status, members will also become weaker and sustain greater damage from enemy attacks. When a Reaper comes into contact with you, be very careful. A wise decision would be to retreat and immediately visit a temple to be purified by the priests.

Introduction to Spells

Spells are divided into two main categories, Priest Spells and Sorcerer Spells. Each type of spell and the differences between the two will be discussed in this section.

Remember that each spell has its own unique characteristics

Spells can be used to heal wounded party members, and they can also be used to attack enemies. Spells are essential for your journey. In general, spells are divided into two categories, Priest Spells and Sorcerer Spells. Depending on a character's class, the spells available to him/her will be different. Depending on the situation, offensive spells can have four types of effects as described below. Be familiar with each distinctive spell and use powerful spells to defeat enemies. Learning and enhancing magic are also unique, so be sure to learn the processes well before you start the game.

Critical

The caster's concentration is increased, and the damage inflicted on the enemy is doubled.

Fumble

The caster lacks concentration and damage dealt to the enemy is reduced by  $\frac{1}{2}$ .

Resist

Enemies with the ability to resist magic will only receive  $\frac{1}{2}$  damage.

Barrier

Depending on the special abilities of the monsters, some spells will be ineffective.

Learning Spells

In the world of Wizardry, spells are learned through items called "Magic Stones". The number of times you can use spells increase as your character reaches higher levels. Therefore, it's important to defeat various enemies to collect Materials to make Magic Stones.

Enhancing Spells

In order to increase the strength of a spell, use Magic Stones to raise the level of that spell. By collecting a lot of Magic Stones of the same kind, you will be able to use very powerful spells without your character having to reach a high level. However, each spell has its own level limits.

Priest Spells Most priest spells help recover health and assist attacks. The first four levels of Priest spells are listed below.

Town Facilities

The facilities in Duhan are essential to adventurers. Learn the role of each facility and use them wisely to further your adventure.

The 6 Facilities that Warmly Welcome Adventurers of the Labyrinth

The town of Duhan was once full of spirit. After the Flash, the town fell to ruins, but some facilities still remain. Included in those places that can be visited are the Tavern, the Guild, the Temple, Vigger's Shop, a save point, and the Labyrinth. You can move between the different places using the left and right directional buttons. The following is an explanation of these facilities.

The Arrangement of Facilities

REMEMBER: Some shops operate secretly in the Labyrinth.

Not all shops that will be helpful to you on your adventure are located in town. There's a shop known as "Smiley's Shop" on the first floor of the Labyrinth which sells items not available at Vigger's. There're other facilities such as the "Material Shop" which will become available once you've fulfilled certain conditions.

Tavern

LUNA LIGHT™

Crowded with adventurers who've explored the Labyrinth, the Luna Light, the only tavern in town, is a place for people to post their quests and seek out comrades to adventure with.

A Place for Weary Travelers to Rest and Those in Need to Request Help

There are 4 actions that can be performed at the Tavern: Access the "Party" menu, "Recruit a comrade to the party", view the "Quest List", and "Dismiss a comrade from the party". Each action is explained in detail below. Be sure to make full use of the "Party" menu which gives you the option to practice disarming traps. You will find those traps quite troublesome in the Labyrinth.

Party

Besides the various commands explained on page 12, you can also "Practice Disarming Traps" at the Tavern. In the time allotted, press the buttons in sequence that correspond to the pictures that appear on the screen. Be sure to practice!

Recruit/Dismiss Comrades

You may also recruit or dismiss comrades from your party at the Tavern. Use the cursor to select a character and press  $\Delta$ . His/her status will be visible. Press  $\square$  to view a list of spells mastered. All characters that you've recruited through your encounters can join the party here. Check the list with the L1 and R1 buttons.

Quest List

You may view quests that have been posted at the Tavern by other guests. Use the directional buttons to select a quest and, after reading the details, if you choose to accept it, confirm your decision using the  $X$  button. To go to the next page of the quest list, use the left and right directional buttons. You are able to cancel a quest that you've accepted, but be careful, because once you have, you will not be able to undertake the same quest again. You may only accept 3 quests at a time.

Lodging for Adventurers the Lodge

The Lodge is a warm, cozy place where adventurers can recuperate from their journeys. Those who have overcome many hardships in the Labyrinth return here each day.

At the Lodge, you have the opportunity to both recover and increase your level.

Although you may have destroyed many enemies and earned sufficient experience, the abilities of your characters will not go up until you have stayed at the Lodge. You will not be able to play effectively without utilizing the Lodge because of its important features, including the ability to recover HP and MP when you stay overnight.

The Temple

Salem Temple

The Temple is filled with the sorrows of the people who have lost their loved ones. Adventurers come to the priests wishing to resurrect comrades and to receive healing.

This facility is the place to go to have an abnormal status healed.

While fighting monsters, a character can sometimes be affected by an abnormal status. If left untreated, the character's health may deteriorate more rapidly and the abnormal status could even lead to death. Be sure to use the temple if you are short on recovery items.

Recovering from Abnormal Statuses

There are four types of abnormal statuses: poison, paralysis, petrified, and fear. While characters are in these statuses, they are still alive. Restore them to good health before it's too late. Fees for such services depend on the treatment required.

Revival from Death & Ashes

You may revive adventurers who have died or have been turned into ashes. The dead can easily be revived, but once an adventurer has been turned into ashes, you might not be able to recover him/her and could end up losing the character permanently.

Services Provided by the Temple

- Cure poison
- Cure paralysis
- Cure petrification
- Cure fear
- Revive from death
- Resurrect from ashes
- Purify Reaper

The Shop

Vigger's Shop

Though once flourishing, presently Vigger's Shop has been struggling to stock its inventory. Adventurers are constantly complaining about the lack of supplies.

The Item Shop

This shop does not have a very good reputation due to its meager selection of items. However, there are several important services offered at the shop. Besides buying and selling items, you can also have items appraised, have a curse lifted from an item, or mix Materials. All items sold to the shop by adventurers will be put up for sale, which means that the store's inventory will increase if many items are brought in.

Buy/Sell Items

The primary functions of the store are buying and selling items. While looking through the list of available items, turn the pages using the left and right directional buttons and select an item using the X button. Then, choose which character will carry the item. To sell an item, select a character using the left and right directional buttons and then choose the item you'd like to sell using the up and down directional buttons.

Appraise Items

The true nature of items found in the Labyrinth will not be revealed until these items have been brought back to the shop and appraised. Be careful, because if you equip an item without first having it appraised, you may discover that the item is cursed. Also, items should be appraised before they are sold. Otherwise, they will not command a very high price.

Lift Curses

Some of the items that you will find have been cursed. If cursed items are equipped, various harmful effects will occur. A curse can be lifted from an item at the shop. Once it has been lifted, its effects will also fade.

Making Magic Stones

You can also mix Materials and create Magic Stones at the shop. First, select the type of stone you wish to create. Then, a list of materials will appear for you to use in creating an appropriate combination. Choose materials carefully before mixing. Also, materials are essential to create special spells using Vellums. Not only are Materials useful in creating Magic Stones, but they can also have various effects during battle.

By Mixing Materials

When you defeat enemies, you will occasionally obtain an enemy's body part, referred to as Materials. By combining these Materials, you will be able to make Magic Stones.

By Using Vellums

You will be able to make special spells that are written on the Vellums. The Vellums can be kept at the Shop so that when you collect all the Materials needed, the lady at the Shop can mix them for you. You are not restricted to the number of Magic Stones made.

Separating Magic Stones

You can separate Magic Stones back to their original Materials. It is a good idea to separate those Magic Stones you do not need anymore and make new ones from the separated Magic Stones.

Race and Class

Each adventurer belongs to a certain race and class. Understanding a character's race and class can help you create a stronger party.

Race/Class which Affects Character Development

When you start a new game, you will need to choose a race and class for the main character. Depending on the race and class you chose, the abilities of your character will differ. This can affect the nature of battles significantly. Race determines factors such as strength and speed, while class determines which special abilities a character will be able to acquire. In other words, by successfully combining race and class, you can create a strong character. Let's begin by examining each race/class and its unique characteristics.

Guild

The Guild is energized with a professional atmosphere. Here, visitors converge, seeking comrades and looking to change classes.

The Guild

Maintaining Adventurers at this Facility

In the Guild, there are two types of actions that can be performed, "Register" and "AA Mastering." In the Register, you can form a party or change a character's class. For a fee, you can master new Allied Actions from the "AA Mastering" menu. Use these options wisely to strengthen your party.

Party

- Register an Adventurer - Unlike the Tavern where you may encounter other adventurers, at the Guild you can create your own new comrades.
- Delete an Adventurer - Use this command to delete a member of the party. Once a character has been deleted, you will not be able to use him/her again.
- Change Name - You can change the names of adventurers, including the main character, in the Register.
- Change Class - You can change the classes of adventurers, including the main character, in the Register. Certain requirements must be met in order to change a character's class.
- View the Register - You can view information about your adventurers in the Register.

Mastering New AA's

For a fee, you can learn new Allied Actions at the Guild. You may choose from "Offensive Allied Actions", "Defensive Allied Actions", "Spell Allied Actions", and "Assisted Allied Actions".

Saving

Save a record of your adventures at the unnamed facility, located on the outskirts of town.

Save Data

Saving Your Adventure

The purpose of this facility is for saving your data. Insert a memory card in MEMORY CARD slot 1 before saving your data. When the save screen appears, move the cursor to the block where you wish to save using the up and down directional buttons. Confirm your selection using the X button.

Race

The following five races will be available for you to choose from. Adventurers in the Tavern will already belong to a certain race.

Human

A race with balanced characteristics. Humans are suitable for any class, but do not have a high level of faith.

Elf

A race blessed with wisdom and faith. Elves are weaker physically, but they are well suited for classes that require casting of spells.

Dwarf

A powerful race with strong faith. Since Dwarves lack agility, rather than becoming a thief or a class that uses spells, they should select a class such as warrior, which involves fighting or using brute strength.

Gnome

An agile race with high faith. Gnomes are best suited to serve as priests. However, since they are so skillful, they can belong to any class.

Hobbit

A race with uncommon agility and luck. Instead of selecting a physical class for a Hobbit, it would be wisest to choose something that doesn't involve a great deal of strength. Hobbits make perfect thieves.

Class

The classes available in the game are displayed on the right. Depending on a character's class, there will be various ways to fight enemies. When you are creating a new party, you will need to carefully consider the classes of your party members. Try different combinations to create unique parties. Characters can change classes at the Guild in Duhan. Note that each class has certain requirements, and some characters will not be able to change classes.

Tips for the Adventurer

There are many mysteries hidden in the Labyrinth. The tips below will help you play this game more effectively.

Always carry a Transfer Potion, which will immediately return you to town.

Once you've gone deep into the Labyrinth, it is difficult to return to the town. A Transfer Potion will be extremely helpful because it will instantly return you to Duhan. Furthermore, the potion will be very advantageous in the event that you encounter the Reaper. Vigger's Shop does not carry this potion, but it is available at Smiley's Shop on the 1st Floor of the Labyrinth. It may also appear as an item in a treasure chest. Be sure to stock up on this potion before entering the Labyrinth.

Discover shortcuts to make exploration easier.

Because you will be exploring the Labyrinth so frequently, you will pass through the upper levels often. However, the paths to the stairs and elevators that lead underground are very far. It will be a waste of time to fight against the weak monsters once your characters' levels have risen. At that point, shortcuts will come in handy. Shortcuts are not available at first, but as you solve various mysteries, they will open up. Shortcuts will help you travel through the Labyrinth more easily.

Check the Labyrinth Walls.

If you cannot proceed in the game after trying all available paths, try checking the walls carefully. When you see a cracked wall, dash towards it and crash into it using the  $\triangle$  directional button + the O button. The wall might fall down and open a new path. It is important to examine walls thoroughly since there are many hidden paths. Be sure to remember where hidden paths are, because they will close once you leave that floor.
